Opening and closing

- To slide the sun roof fully open, briefly slide the switch backwards to the second position.
- To close the sun roof completely, briefly slide the switch forwards to the second position or briefly pull the switch downwards to the second position Δ .
- To set an intermediate position, press the switch forwards/backwards to the first position until the sun roof has reached the desired position.

A wind deflector incorporated in the panorama sun roof adapts automatically to suit the position of the sun roof. This feature minimises wind noise in all roof positions.

The panorama sun roof can be operated for about ten minutes after the ignition has been switched off. The switch is deactivated immediately when one of the front doors is opened.

Sun blind

The sun blind can be opened and closed by hand when the panorama sun roof is open in any position. The sun blind can be adjusted to any intermediate position.

WARNING
Take care when closing the panorama sun roof. Careless or uncontrolled use can cause injuries. For this reason, always take the ignition key with you when leaving the vehicle.

CAUTION
You should always close your panorama sun roof when leaving the car. Sudden rain could seriously damage your car's interior equipment, especially the on-board electronic systems.

Note
– Details on the convenience open/close function \rightarrow page 51.
– The panorama sun roof can be opened only at temperatures above -20 °C.

Closing the panorama sun roof manually

Applies to vehicles with panorama sun roof

If the panorama sun roof detects a resistance while it is closing (e.g. caused by an object trapped in the mechanism), a safety cut-out will be triggered and the roof will open again automatically. If the roof will still not close automatically after you remove the object and operate the switch again, you can use the safety cut-out override to close it.

• After the sun roof opens automatically, pull and hold the switch within 5 seconds until the sun roof is closed.

If you release the switch before the panorama sun roof is fully closed, it will open again automatically.

If you have to top up the oil between oil changes, use the grades of oil specified in the table in accordance with VW standards. You will need to know whether – the vehicle is being serviced based on the flexible or fixed oil change service (see last service record in Service Schedule).

– the vehicle has a petrol or diesel engine (see sticker on inside of fuel tank flap).

– a diesel particulate filter is fitted on the vehicle (see Delivery Inspection section of Service Schedule).

The positions of the engine oil filler cap and the oil dipstick (items ② and ③ \rightarrow Fig. 220) may be different on some engine versions.

Engine oil

Choosing the correct engine oil grade

The service interval display in the instrument cluster of your vehicle will inform you when it is time for an oil change. We recommend having the oil changed by a qualified workshop.

Construction of front airbags

The airbag system is not a substitute for the seat belts.

Fig. 188 Steering wheel front airbag

The front airbag for the driver is located in the padded hub of the steering wheel (Fig. 188). The front airbag for the front passenger is in the dashboard above the glove box (Fig. 189). The location of the airbags are marked with the word "AIRBAG".

In conjunction with the three-point seat belts, the front airbags provide additional head and chest protection for the driver and front passenger and for the area around the driver's knees in the event of a serious frontal collision (Fig. 189). Important safety notes on the front airbag system are on page 174.

How the front airbags work

When fully inflated, the airbags reduce the risk of head-on injury.

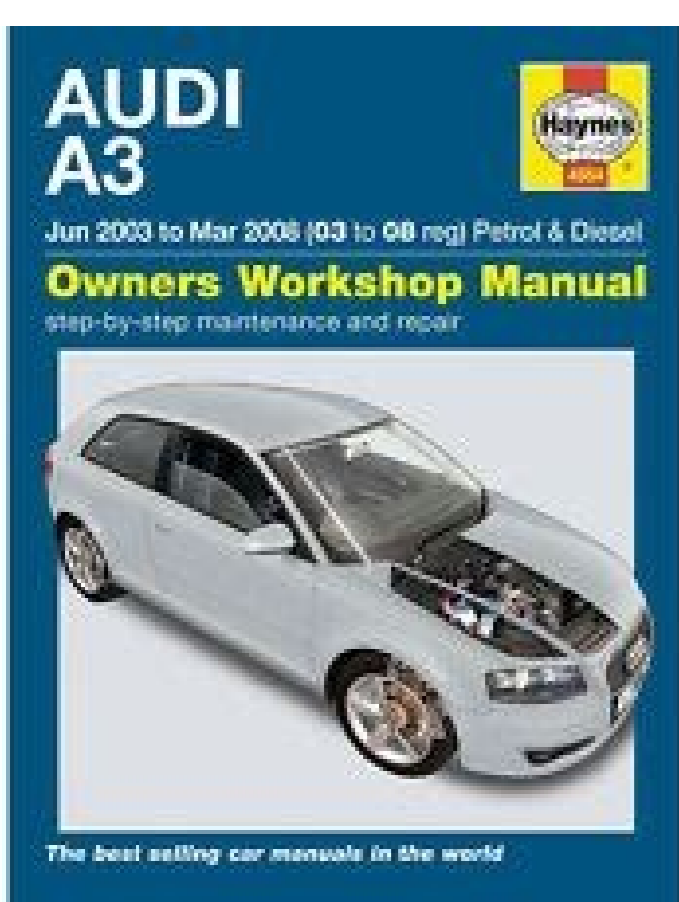

Fig. 189 Front airbags inflated and inflated

The driver and front passenger's airbags may be triggered in certain frontal collisions (Fig. 189). Airbag inflation systems may also be triggered, depending on the circumstances.

When the system is triggered, the airbag fills with a compressed gas and expands in front of the driver and front passenger (Fig. 189) in order to provide the desired safety protection.

In an accident, the airbags have to inflate on impact, rapidly within fractions of a second. The fully inflated airbags cushion the forward movement of the front occupants and help to reduce the risk of injury to the head and the upper part of the body.

Special seating in the airbag allows them to be inflated at a controlled rate to reduce the forward movement of the occupant's head and torso. Once the impact has been absorbed, the airbags deflate sufficiently for the front occupants to see forward.
