Wallpaper engine performance impact reddit

Do I download the chosen wallpaper and are all of them safe or is the program/app itself safe? Thanks in advanced I got it but I'm not sure I want to use it because I cannot tell if it's hurting anything. I was thinking of getting wallpaper engine because I look at my desktop a lot. Will it just drop a few frames or drop more? I have a RTX 2060 super and a r5 3600x CPU. Thanks in advance I think the program looks great but I'd rather not sacrifice fps for it. Page 2 7 comments Title, does a moving background have any cons? My pc heats up a lot as its summer here so im concerned about that. So I purchased wallpaper engine yesterday, and when I have any wallpaper from wallpaper engine on it kills my FPS To around 60 with massive spikes everywhere in both directions. It's also causing low CPU usage in games sometimes as well. I've tried to see if it's any specific type of wallpaper and problems with any type, animated or not. I've also tried the performance settings, doesn't make a difference either. While I do have a solution that I can live with if I have to (ALT+N keybind to turn off and on wallpapers at any time if there causing an issue), I'd like to see if there's a better solution that allows me to keep the wallpapers active always. Specs if they matter: 17 10700k, RTX 3070, 16GB 3200mhz c16i Also have 2 monitors I was wondering if having a moving background on while playing a game will affect your gaming performance and how much will it effect it? Any help would be appreciated. I have a pretty cheap gaming laptop that I use for school and gaming. I want to try and download wallpaper engine but I just want to ask if this program affect in game performance and temps of CPUs and GPUs. Does it also affect the gpu usage and temps even when just browsing and being idle? Also how does this program work? Recently I saw wallpaper engine on steam and some of the wallpapers looked really cool. Will it affect my in-game and overall performance if I run the software background all the time?! My monitor is 1080p 144hz Does wallpaper engine affect battery life, performance, fps, temperature? I play a lot of Black Ops 3 Zombies on my GTX 1050TI and want to know if an animated wallpaper at 1080p will effect my FPS. But I have a few questions.
