

Republican Plan Should be Vetoed

Republican Plan Should be Vetoed

I think that the Republican should be vetoed because to me, their proposed tax cuts in education, the environment, and other areas are not the way to go. There are probably other government functions that could use a decrease in spending. Raising medicare premiums

(http://www.yahoo.com/headlines/951114/news/stories/budget\_42.html)

seems alright, but there could be a better way. In general, today's Congress is in so much deadlock over balancing the budget, they will end up watching it go to about $6 billion by the start of the new millenium!!! The debt's already too high now.

President Johnson was able to halve the deficit and keep his budget under $100 million during his first year in office (<http://pathfinder.com/time/special/moy/1964.html>); but he achieved this through some manipulation of others - something of which Bill Clinton is not a master. Though the proposed increase of $9 a month may seem small to some, many older Americans in the long run will not be able to keep up with the payments and will trim down their disposable income (isn't this what Keynes would think?) Stimulating the economy at the expense of a certain group of people does not constitute favorable domestic policy for politicians of any party.

Why is it that the U.S. has such a hard time trying to keep a stable economy when Germany has historically had pretty strong currency and is perhaps the best economic nation in all of Europe? (<http://pathfinder.com/time/international/1995/950925/economies.html>) They do have tougher regulations, but not a lot of capitalistic ways that we do here. The country's central bank managed to step in after unification with tough-minded economic management; and even though the eastern side of the country has spend a little more than necessary, Germany today remains financially stable (without huge increases in inflation). The temporary stop-gap spending bills that Clinton vetoed, causing the current partial government shutdown, has made the U.S. look bad in the eyes of the world because of party gridlock. I doubt if countries such as Germany ever have this much trouble.

Are there any solutions to solving the national debt that will completely satisfy everyone involved? Probably not. I proved that by stating my support for the President's veto of the Republican's spending bills. However, the one item that really bugs me is that if the Republicans want to lower the debt so much, why
