HOW A BILL BECOMES A LAW

About 25,000 bills are introduced in each term of Congress, but only 10 percent become law. These are the steps in the law-making process. A bill may begin in either the House or the Senate except for money bills, which must be introduced in the House.

1. Bill is Drafted: Members of Congress, the Executive Branch, and even outside groups can draft (write or draw up) bills.
2. Introduced in House: Representative introduces the bill in the House. Only members of the House of Representatives can introduce bills.
3. Sent to Committee: The Speaker of the House sends the bill to a committee.
4. Committee Action: Most bills die here. The committee may pigeonhole (ignore), table (review in later), amend, or vote on the bill. If bill passes, it goes to Rules Committee.
5. Rules Committee: It decides the rules for debate, and when the bill will come up for debate.
6. Floor Action: House debates the bill, and may add amendments. If a majority votes in favor of the bill, it goes to the Senate.
7. Introduced in Senate: A Senator introduces the bill, which is sent to a committee.
8. Committee Action: Same procedure as in the House. If the committee majority votes for the bill, it goes to the whole Senate.
9. Bill Called Up: Majority floor leader decides when the whole Senate will consider the bill.
10. Floor Action: The bill is debated, and amendments may be added. If a majority votes in favor of the bill, it is returned to the House.
11. Conference Committee: If the House rejects any of the changes, the bill goes to a conference committee of members from both houses. It works out a compromise.
12. Vote on Compromise: Both houses must approve changes made by the conference committee. If approved, the bill goes to the president.
13. Presidential Action: The president may sign (approve) the bill or veto (reject) it. If approved, the bill becomes a law.
14. Vote to Override: If the president vetoes the bill, it can still become law if two thirds of both houses vote to override the veto.
