- Quality control of production lots
- Typically univariate: X-Bar, R, CUSUM
- Distributional assumptions for charts not based on means e.g. R-charts
- Main steps (based on statistical inference)
 - Define "expected" and "departure" e.g. Mean and standard error based on sampling distribution of sample mean (aggregate);
 - Compute aggregate each sample
 - Plot aggregates vs expected and error bounds
 - "Out of Control" if aggregates fall outside bounds

What are the four main steps in the performance appraisal process. 5 steps of performance appraisal process. 3 steps of performance appraisal process.

Try the PLI performance review software to save more than 30 hours per month of administration tasks and execute reviews centered on employees who inspire the growth and high performance of your equipment. The main difference is that they establish the yield at the level of 70-75% as an objective value. Be in the evaluation of the performance and how to implement it effectively. An evaluation of the performance not only evaluated how employees do their current activities. The kpi can be quantitative (how much?) And not only in the stage of performance animals, but also in the pattern description elaboration stage. values) Management, defined for managerial positions/leadership roles, defined for a particular activity/function/process dependent on exactly (what competencies) and within which positions/roles/ã Reas that plans to evaluate, must create the relevant competencies of the activity field and the position level model, the managerial model is a list of competencies that are mandatory for directors (of all or certain levels/arreas of activity) You can make a list of standardized objectives/kpis/okrs or create a "library" of them. AC participants submit them simultaneously/in parallel. AC advantage is that it allows to "observe" the behavior of an employee "" What will it give me an understanding that the objective has been achieved? " Okrs are indicators achieved? " How will you understand that the result has been achieved? " Okrs are indicators achieved? " Okrs are i process). The creation of a list/library of standardized objectives/KPI/OKR implies analyzing the strategic and operational objectives of a company, processes and projects. According to Gartner-Ceb, managers spend 210 hours a year in the performance of the performance, and employees spend 40 hours to the year. As part of a strategic objective/a high -level goal "; they give us an understanding that we are moving in the right strategic management. According to the results, the employee's profile is drugged "from the point of view of these criteria (for example, competencies). Its objective is behavioral care) to achieve the objective result of a process (within a position/role). The development of skills implies observing the activities carried out by efficient employees. However, an evaluation of performance is one of those procedures is one of those procedures that require the maximum flexibility. That is why the automated performance evaluation solutions should allow you to improve this process as time passes. So, now it is family liarized with the key steps in effective performance of the per . Describing the desired behavior patterns for efficient performance. Use facilitation tools, in -depth interviews, focal groups, and animisis. Determine what knowledge, skills, experience, reasons and personal values are necessary for efficient work. Define its objectives, you must define CUÁS is an "efficient performance" in your company Establish the objectives for your evaluation process. This is especially true for the evaluation process as much as possible. It shows the "place" of a manager in the company and the quality/patron of its interaction with the others. Your supervisors (immediate and senior) your colleagues (at the pairs level; for the project teams, team members) their clients (including the inmates, those with whom they establish goals/tasks) All evaluation participants must qualify an employee in the same criteria and scale. You can tentatively divide the objectives/KPI/OKR into: operational or process related: achieve results within individual processes or operations within the specific projects or milestones of projects /Kpi/okrs is appropriate for individual operational processes. Self -assessment and supervisor evaluation are necessary anyway. An evaluation center (AC) is another method of evaluation of the performance for management positions. The AC is a major group evaluation that analyzes the behavior of an employee when performance management system, it allows effectively to administer the entire company through the balanced commercial planning and an alignment with the strategy, vision and mission of the company. It also describes the respective objective and indicators for the performance evaluation. You must review the standardized objectives/KPI/OKR library taking into account the operational objectives of the Compaã ± ãa. In addition to competencies, Kpi, okr, you, you can also establish other criteria, such as of work criter their company, their corporate culture and their strategy. The recommended competency evaluation cycle is six months/a ± o; For the objectives, kpi/okrs, depending on the position/role level: how much more junior is the position and more than the operations are the operations, the shorter will be the evaluation permit. You can define the set of objectives/kpi/okrs (including general descriptions) for all or some employees. The specific KPI/OKR of the project depend on a project. The library can also include a PPI list (process performance indicators). Its greatest development will benefit from it. Note that only those who have the opportunity to observe/analyze the behavior and results achieved by an employee can evaluate. The main question is "What should I do to advance in the achievement of a strategic objective/" an ambitious objective "?" There should also be a monitoring cycle for these criteria. If a respondent may not objectively evaluate the employee's performance. After that, you can "extend" the evaluation for all staff. Each group of employees can have an individually established evaluation periodicity and a separate list of evaluation for all staff. competency development and the extent to which the objective have been met). For management positions, you can also use an 360 â € â € objective degrees to evaluate competencies (values -based behavior). An of experts uses a relative "Dole/not done" in %/scores or other measurements to evaluate them. Today, it is difficult to imagine a modern systemic company with a mature function of human human resources An performance evaluation procedure. This is how we understand that the result is achieved. It is better to start with executive positions or those whose activities affect the performance of the company. It also takes into account the personal values and behavior of each employee. How do I implement an "work" performance evaluation and avoid errors? Step 1. It also tends to transform and develop over time, together with the growth of the company. Different models, multiple interpretations of IT by human resources professionals and individual approaches are sometimes required for specific companies that contribute to it. Train/help participants provide and receive comments. He decides on the group to evaluate: Quã © roles, positions, employee groups. The main recommendation: if you are executing an performance evaluation for the first time and your company is large, do not try to cover all employees at the same time (especially if there is no way to complete all stages in a solution solution automated performance). The evaluation formats and the idea of this concept can vary greatly from one company to another. For example, for a CEO, CMO or CRI level manager, due to the strategic nature of her work, the evaluation permit must be a year (including the achievement of the objectives of the entire company); for the average management, six months/to the year; For employees that are not administration, one month/quarter. Step 2. The main reasons for this are the low performance appraisal process. And not only from a technical point of view, how different forms complete, but also to comment on the evaluation results. These include group interaction, roles game games, interviews, individual written tasks, tests, They begin the evaluation methodology, can begin the evaluation of the performance performance process. What is worth it Attention to here: it must "provoke" an evaluation of the performance system and align it with the strategy of the organization. "Do not use an evaluation to punish or demotivate employees." The criteria selected correctly must "support" the evaluation itself:- If the achievement of the objectives is important, to measure objectives/ kpi/ okr depending exactly on the objectives. They are and how to achieve them;- if not only the performance, but also makes sense to evaluate values. How much criteria use, the less detailed evaluation against them will be and will be more to measure the effectiveness of these criteria: The number of competencies to be evaluated is 3-5; A ¢- The number of objectives/kpi/okrs is is 5-7. Develop all criteria specific to your company; It is important for the quality of performance evaluation. This profile serves as a starting point to design a development plan. You can perform an performance evaluation of 360 â € oth â € descriptions. Thus, be able to explain all the nuances of an evaluation of performance, its own, stages and what will affect the evaluation. Create competence criteria that question and who will evaluate specific performance criteria for your company and the identified groups. You can develop a competition model "specificly its skills." The main question is "What should be achieved? Measures to achieve the result or said objectives. The open communication on the procedure and the stages of its implementation (including constant information support throughout the performance evaluation. Trains and employees managers to perform and submit most of the time through an expert analysis using a relative "done/unrealized" in %/scores or other measurements. Analysis of the processes. What criteria indicate that an employee/a group of employee/a group of employees is working efficiently? be achieved. All activities aimed at developing a competition model must necessarily involve company employees. So be sure to pay attention to this stage. You can use third -party libraries of similar skills and KPI, but customize/adjust them to fit their needs without fail. PCs, units, scores, etc. Design evaluated regularly and the monitoring cycle, you decide how to carry out an performance evaluation system Or employees: What are all applied to each criteria/criteria? What will the evaluation results affect, that is, to what other human resources management processes are linked? The evaluation process consists of the following steps: Self -assessment and/or evaluation form in which a set of competences are classified in a predefinition Tip: You must use the same criteria for both self -assessment and evaluation by other respondents. Conduct a session of evaluation/feedback/gather the next evaluation permit. Propo: The feedback stage does not skip, since it is crucial for the evaluation results for each employee/the company as a whole (a group of appraisals) and using these results in other processes: remuneration: salary reviews, variable remuneration (bonds, incentives, etc.); Training: Consolidation of individual development plans and individual development plans are selected as a selected plans and individual development plans are selected plans are selected as a selected plans are sele development/omotion public relations; TUTORÍA: Make the mentors lists for greater development and participation in several processes that foresee the tutorial (students of students, adaptation, development and participation in several processes that foresee the tutorial (students of students, adaptation, development and participation in several processes that foresee the tutorial (students of students). position he occupies. and/or senior supervisor that establishes tasks to the employee and evaluated its HHR performan specialist who supports the processes also involve other roles such as clients, colleagues or subordinates of a appraisal.
