Recharge to refresh your section. (This is© the same code as the upstream repository, but updated to use the androidx + enhance sdkversion libraries) This decorator lets you easily create section heads for RecyclerViews using a LinearLayoutManager in both vertical and horizontal orientation. Credit © Emil SjÃ¶lander for the creation of StickyListHeaders, a library in which many of us rely for sticky heads in our viewing lists. Here's a quick video in action (click to see the full video): Download Current Version: compile 'com.timehop.stickyheadersrecyclerview:library:[latest.version.number]@aar' Usage There are three main classes, StickyRecyclersHeadersAdapter, StickyrecycleRHeadersDecoration, and StickyrecycleRHeadersTouchListener. StickyRecyclerHeadersAdapter has a very similar interface to RecyclerView.Adapter, and it is recommended that your RecyclerView.Adapter implement StickyRecyclerHeadersAdapter. This interface has the following aspect: StickyRecyclerHeadersAdapter { public long getHeaderId(int position); public VH onCreateHeaderViewHolder(ViewGroup parent); public void onBindHeaderViewHolder(VH holder, int position); public int getItemCount(); } The second class, StickyRecyclerHeadersDecoration, © where most of the magic happens, and does not require any configuration on your side. Here's an example of onCreate() on an activity: mRecyclerView = (RecyclerView) findViewById(R.id.recyclerview); mAdapter = new MyStickyRecyclerHeadersAdapter(); mRecyclerView.setAdapter(mAdapter); mRecyclerView.setLayoutManager (new LinearLayoutManager(context)); mRecyclerView.addItemDecoration (new StickyRecyclerHeadersDecoration(mAdapter)); Lets you listen to clicks clicks Visions. Just create a StickyRecyclerHeadersTouchListener institution, configure the OnHeaderClickListener, and add the StickyRecyclerHeadersTouchListener as a touch listener to your RecyclerView. StickyRecyclerHeadersTouchListener touchListener = new StickyRecyclerHeadersTouchListener(recyclerView, headersDecor); Player. setOnHeaderClickListener(new StickyRecyclerHeader TouchListener.OnHeaderClickListener() { @Override public void onHeaderClick(View Header, int position, long headerId) < Toast.makeText(MainActivity.this, "Header position: [Position ++], id +headerId, Toast SHORT LENGTH]}); MRecyclerView. addOnItemTouchListener (touchListener); StickyHeaders are not aware of your adapter, so if you should notify them when your dataset changes. Adapter. AdapterDataObserver() @Override public void onChanged() =headersDecor.invalidateHeaders();}; If recyclerview's layout manager implements the ExtraLayoutSpace (for more content©-load, then it is © for performance reasons), you must implement ItemVisibiliyAdapter and pass an example as a second argument to stickyrecyclerheadersdecoration constructor. @@ Overcome the public boolean © Position viewable (final position) [return scale manager.Find the ItemPoscio VisibleItemPosition()== position;] Item animators don't play well with RecyclerView decorates, so your mileage with this may vary. API Compatibility 11+ Known Quests Head views are not recycled at this time. Contributions are very welcome. I haven't tested this with ItemAnimators yet. The views of the head are traused to a screen, and are not really part of the view hierarchy. As such, they may not have touch states, and you may run into trouble if you try to load images into them asynchronously.
